

The Cough of Consumption

Your doctor will tell you that fresh air and good food are the real cures for consumption. But often the cough is very hard. Hence, we suggest that you ask your doctor about your taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It controls the tickling, quiets the cough.

We publish our formulae. We banish coughs from our medicine. We urge you to consult your doctor.

One of Ayer's Pills at bedtime will cause an increased flow of bile, and produce a gentle laxative effect the day following. Formula on each box. Show it to your doctor. He will understand at a glance. Dose, one pill at bedtime.

Made by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

THE HERALD.

J. T. Day went to Campton Tuesday.

Archie Cope, of Frozen, was here this week.

Mrs. Clayton Center, of Lacy creek, is very sick.

Mrs. Matt Cox is visiting relatives in town this week.

E. F., O. W. and Arlie Cecil, J. P. Rose and Sam Kash attended court at Campton Monday.

Miss Josephine Wheeler, teacher in the public school at Beechwood, returned home Monday for vacation.

Mrs. Lizzie Cecil, of Murphy Fork, who has been on the sick list for over a week, was no better the first of the week.

Miss Golden Murphy, of Murphy Fork, could not leave home Tuesday to resume her studies at H. G. A. on account of sickness.

Ellis Johnson last week sold to Jim Little, of Maytown, a sow and seven shoats for $85. The shoats weighed about 100 pounds each.

Uncle Jim Little was on the street yesterday for the first time in nearly two months. He looks quite thin, but is able to get around.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Mr. Fowler, agent for the New Domain Oil and Gas Co., yesterday had the rig moved from Lacy creek to Logan Little's, on Gillmore creek.

The Lady Macabees request the presence of each member at the next regular review, January 22, that being the time for installation of officers.

The news comes from Maytown that a son of R. A. Day has a very serious case of measles. We don't know the young man's name nor age, but give the report as we hear it.

Among the recent arrivals at the Day House we note: Will Manker, West Liberty; G. B. Stamper, Campton; J. F. Canham, Knoxville, Tenn.; C. H. Loveland, Winchester; E. Fuller, Jr., Lexington.

Mrs. Rosa Holloman has the thanks of the editor and his better seven-eighths for a mess of sausage and sparerib, and what the editor did to the gift was a plenty. It was indeed a toothsome mess to tempt any appetite.

Rev. W. B. Ragsan failed to fill his appointment at the Methodist church Saturday night and Sunday. Cause unknown. Prof. M. O. Carter preached to a large and attentive congregation in his place Sunday night.

The editor of the Gurley, Ala., Herald evidently wants the news while it is new, for he has suggested to his correspondents in a recent issue that he does not like to publish births after the baby is walking, or marriages after the honeymoon has been spent, or the death of a man after his widow has married again.

Kentucky Again Ahead.

At Stockton, Calif., last fall the Knights of Columbus offered two handsome trophies for the best essays on "Columbus," one in the parochial school and one in the public school. The essays were submitted last October, but the decision was held up until New Year's eve, when Clay Swango, a Wolfe county boy and a former student of Hazel Green Academy, was announced as the winner of the trophy in behalf of the public school. The trophies are plastic reproductions of the famous work of art, "The Landing of Columbus." They are 30 by 53 inches in size, and on a brass plate attached to each will be engraved the name of the winner. The trophies were made in Boston. No doubt Clay will care for his so well that when he returns to Kentucky he will bring it with him to show to his friends. Several contended against Clay, two of whom received honorable mention. But he showed his Kentucky blood and came out the winner. The Evening Mail, published at Stockton, has the following handsome notice of our Wolfe county boy:

"In reaching the decision the judges gave more consideration to efforts at character study than to the narration of historical facts. Clearness and correctness of expression were also given a high value. In the public school productions, the essay of Clay Swango was considered the best because of its insight into the character of Columbus and because of the smoothness and clearness of its style, with the exception of one paragraph, although it would have been better had it contained more historical facts."

"The winner of the prize in the public schools came to Stockton with his two brothers a couple of years ago from Kentucky. His brothers attended business college for a time and have left the city, so that Clay now has no relatives here. His opportunities for attending school had been limited, and he entered the public school. He secured a place where he could support himself and soon showed that he was determined to do his best to secure an education. He is somewhat older than the pupils of his class, and his essay shows that the school of life is not without value in developing the thinking power."

Teachers' Awakening.

The annual meeting of teachers of Oklahoma in Oklahoma City is something that should arouse the enthusiasm of teachers in other states.

It was the pleasure of the writer to look into the faces of 5,000 teachers united into one great body with one purpose in view, to make Oklahoma the leading state in the union in the great work of education.

The love for my native state almost turned to jealousy, but a higher principle duty in the heart and the ambition of all true Kentuckians says shoulders to the wheels and toward the front to make Oklahoma the greatest of the great in the work that will make this beloved nation of ours the strongest of all in intellectual lines as well as of national resources. Our strength as a nation in the future is to be measured more by our knowledge than by our arms or wealth.

The fight is now on, the time is at hand and which state is to carry the banner?

It is my desire, my hope, and my aim to try to make the state in which I make my home the banner state, but love of my native state says to me, try and inspire the teachers in my native state to be in the front ranks if defeated in this great battle for greater knowledge of nature and her undeveloped wonders.

May Kentucky be inscribed on the banner that shall lead the nations in the great work of uplifting the weak, of guiding the wayward into paths of usefulness, and in making this nation a light that shall shine as the sun at midday.

Greeting of congratulations to fellow-workers from one of the Old Kentucky teachers for what you have done, but more for what you are going to do.

Yours in the work,
L. W. Turr, Barbanks, Okla.

H. G. A. Notes.

Price Hutton has something like lagrippe.

There is a great deal of sickness in school.

J. F. Walters visited homefolks Saturday and Sunday.

Hon. C. C. Fulks, of Campton, visited his son, Darley, Sunday.

There is a rumor in school that there is measles, but we think there is nothing of it.

Prof. Lenix Swango is sick at this writing and is not able to attend to his work.

Sam Brewer left Monday for Campton. He will matriculate in the County High School there.

Prof. M. O. Carter gave a very interesting talk at the Methodist church Sunday night, the regular pastor being absent.

There are about 800 enrolled at present and reports show that there will be several more in this week. The school is the largest in its history.

Fire at Campton.

Campton on Thursday night last had another disastrous conflagration, entailing a loss of several thousand dollars. The Masonic and Odd Fellows' Hall, which was insured for $900, and the Columbia building, with an insurance of $600, were among the buildings burned. The fire swept everything from the Methodist church to Main street. The Columbia building was owned by Thrasher Combs, and also the corner store on Main street. Frank Thomas had a stock of goods in the hall and had a small insurance. The fire is supposed to have been of incendiary origin, but no one seems to know anything about it. A Halsey woman had occupied a building in rear of the Columbia and the fire originated there. But no one was living there at the time.

A Serious Charge.

Elijah Blankenship, a well known young man of this vicinity, was arrested on a warrant charging him with a very serious offence. He waived examination before Squire Brooks, who issued the warrant, and was sent to jail, pending the action of the grand jury, which is now in session. Many of his friends claim that he is not guilty of the offence he is charged with and that when the proper time comes he will so demonstrate. We refrain from giving any of the details as given until he shall have had a trial or the grand jury takes action in the premises. Later—He is out on a bond of $500.

High School at Campton.

The trustees of Wolfe county met at Campton Wednesday last and established a High School in the Wesleyan Academy building, which they bought last fall. They employed R. M. Clark, of Winchester, as principal. Edgar Alexander and Taylor Taulbee are assistant teachers. The school opened Monday, and the enrollment is not known. The school will be known as a second-class High School.

KENTUCKY KERNELS

Carefully Collated and Concisely Chronicled.

Six months in jail and $500 fine was the verdict of a jury in Franklin Circuit court in the case of Morgan Brawner, charged with the killing of Bacon Robb.

May, the four-year old daughter, of Charles Brown, of Forest Grove, was seriously scalded when a pot of boiling coffee was spilled over her. She will probably die.

S. H. Kash, revenue agent for the state at large, has filed suits against fifty Lexington grocers and restaurateurs for state license for the sale of cigarettes, soft drinks, etc.

In less than five minutes after he began to work to learn to be a brakeman, Patrick Connelly, aged 22 years, was run down and killed by a switch engine in the L. & N. yards at East Louisville.

J. H. Overstreet, who for thirty years conducted a vegetable stand in the Lexington market house, dropped dead on the street in the city while on his way home Saturday night about 10 o'clock. The coroner's jury rendered a verdict of apoplexy.

A negro chicken thief, who gave his name as Sam Clark, was arrested after a ten-mile cross-country chase by Andy Beeler, a farmer residing about eight miles from Louisville. When captured the negro was bleeding from about 50 shot wounds.

At Brooksville, Mason county, Charles Gallagher fired a double-barreled shotgun into a crowd of young men and women on their way to church, wounding eight of them. As the crowd passed his house some one called out, "Let 'er go, Gallagher," and he responded with his gun.

After being twice awarded large sums for damages against the C. & O. railway company for the killing of her husband by one of the defendant's trains, Mrs. James Brashear, of Montgomery county, was awarded $8,750 at a third trial, and this verdict was last week sustained by the Court of Appeals.

Six indictments, charging Edward Kirtley, a student of the Kentucky Normal and Industrial Institute, with stealing and selling school questions to persons who became applicants for teachers' certificates, were dismissed. Kirtley committed suicide in Lexington a short time since while out on bond.

Bad luck pursues Col. W. P. Walton, late editor of the defunct Lexington Evening Gazette. Following on the heels of the suspension of the paper, Wednesday, and the filing of a deed of assignment, Thursday, some thief broke into his room Friday and stole an overcoat and hat, the best the colonel had.

George Dudley, the negro who last fall killed Laura Dudley, his sister-in-law, and Ella Hall, the wife of one of his neighbors, in Lexington, was last week found guilty of manslaughter in taking the life of Laura Dudley, and was given fifteen years in the penitentiary. He is yet to be tried for the killing of Ella Hall.

A Mercer county farmer, tired of the carelessness of hunters on his farm, posted the following notice, says the Harrodsburg Herald: "Notis—trespassers will B per se cuted to the full extent of 2 mungrel dogs which never wuz over sohibel to strangers, and 1 dubbel barl shotgun witch aint agittin tired of this hell rasin on my farm."

James Gause was seriously and perhaps fatally stabbed by his sister-in-law, a woman by the name of Rader, at Granby Richardson Spring, Monday evening. The parties met in the road and had a quarrel, and Gause struck the woman over the head with a whip staff, whereupon she rushed at him with a long knife and stabbed him in the left side just below the heart.—Estill Herald.

While sleeping in its mother's arms, the one-year-old child of Mrs. Pack Walker, of Daviess county, was accidentally shot by Roy Dregaden, the six-year-old nephew of Mrs. Walker, and died about twenty minutes later. The little boy was playing with a gun which Mrs. Walker thought was unloaded, and dropping it on the floor was discharged tearing off one side of the baby's head. The mother was not injured, but is prostrated over the affair.
